River Cats & Giants sign on dotted line

It's official.

The San Francisco Giants on Thursday announced they have reached a two-year deal for the Sacramento River Cats to become their new "farm team."

For their first 15 years, the River Cats – who play out of West Sacramento's Raley Field – were the Triple-A minor league affiliate of the Oakland A's. Beginning with the 2015 season, the Giants will move their Fresno Grizzlies operation to Raley Field. The River Cats will keep their name and logo during the switch.

"We appreciate the 15 successful years we've had with the Oakland Athletics," said River Cats President Jeff Savage in a press release, "and we're grateful for the tremendous support that the region has shown us. Our mission here at Raley Field has always been, and always will be, giving the Sacramento community the best fan experience possible. We're extremely excited to join the Giants family, and can't wait for our 2015 home opener on April 9."

RCHS cooks up culinary arts class

By Rebecca Schwartz
River City High School Journalism Class

This year at River City High School they are introducing a new class, taught by Cheryle Sutton, which teaches students the "culinary arts."

On Thursday, September 18, the small class of 18 students provided meals for more than 120 people at the Living on the Healthy Edge Program, ran by River City's previous principal, Katie Neemer, at Yolo High School.

At the event they served student-made chicken and dumplings, zucchini chips breaded with Italian bread crumbs and parmesan cheese, and watermelon wedges with water. By the end of the event they ended up with leftovers, with which they boxed up and sent home with seminar attendees.

The night went pretty well, according to the students. Despite their lack of experience, they more than made up for it through enthusiasm and enough knowledge to put what they have learned into practice.

"Me and 'Liz were cutting chicken on like a one foot cutting board... We were cutting like, 40 pounds of chicken," laughed Junior Hannah Wall and Senior Elizabeth Montanez, participants in the program.

Overall the event was a rousing success. Look for their next event in Mid-October, again at the Living on the Healthy Edge Program at Yolo High School, where they will be serving Chili and deserts made from scratch.

Ms. Sutton hopes that she can portray her love for the hospitality industry that she spent 15 years of her life working in. She wants to teach her students, not only the practical skills, but the personal skills she learned.

Sutton says, "I want them to learn about themselves. What do they like? What are they good at? I want them to get to know themselves better and I want them to realize team work-how it works, how we work as a team to get something done. And I would also like them to enjoy the process in the meantime."

Dozens 'walk for the poor' on Saturday

A coalition including West Sacramento's Holly Cross and Our Lady of Grace parishes and Sacramento's Cathedral of the Blessed Sacramento joined to organize a poverty-fighting fundraiser here on Saturday.

About 75 people showed up for the "Walk for the Poor," with about 50 of them walking the one-mile distance, reports Paul Starkey.

About $3,000 in pledges have come in so far, including some from the walkers and others who gave at www.fopwalk.org.

"All money collected is spent locally to help the poor with food, clothing, emergency shelter, utilities, and homeless ministry programs in West Sacramento and Sacramento," said Starkey.

West Sacramento police set up a child safety table; firefighters brought equipment.

About four dozen walkers marched along Todhunter and Sacramento Avenues, Kegle Drive and Anna Street near Holy Cross Church.

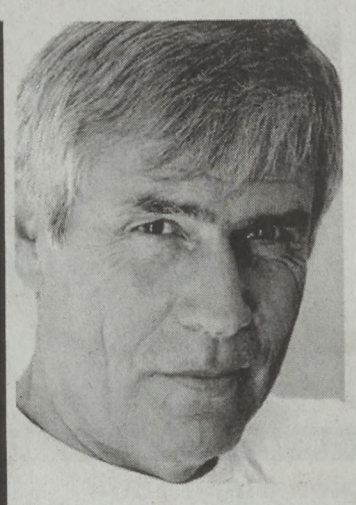
Baseball, evidently, is in the eye of the beholder

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

As all you baseball fans out there probably already know, after 15 very successful seasons as the Triple-A affiliate of the Oakland Athletics, the Sacramento River Cats have decided to switch over to the San Francisco Giants beginning next year.

That means the roster of the Triple-A Fresno Grizzlies, which are currently the top farm team in the Giants' organization, will be playing their home games in West Sacramento next year, while the A's top team will be moving all the way to Nashville, Tennessee to open up a new 10,000 seat stadium that city has built for the 2015 season. Now why this all came about is anybody's guess, but I'm sure finances had a lot to do with it, with the River Cats looking to have even better attendance for their games since there are so many San Francisco Giants' baseball fans living in the greater Sacramento area. The River Cats averaged more than 8,000 fans per game last year, which is some of the best attendance in all of minor league baseball, but I guess they want to do even better than that.

This will be the first time the River Cats have changed their affiliation since moving to West Sacramento, and in many ways, nothing will be much different. The River Cats' logo, uniforms and ball park are not expected to change in any significant way and they will still be associated with the Pacific Coast League, which has always been the best Triple-A league in the country. It will of course be much more convenient for the Giants to have all of their top prospects only 90 miles away from San Francisco, especially since there are always many player transactions over the course of a baseball season which involve calling up top prospects and then sending them back down if things don't work out. The rest of the Giants minor league system includes teams in Richmond, Virginia (the Double-A Flying Squires), San Jose (the Single-A Advanced Giants), Augusta, Georgia (the Single-A Green Jackets), and a developmental team in Keizer, Oregon (the Salem-Keizer Volcanoes).

Anyway, when I first heard the great news about the Giants moving their Triple-A team to Raley Field here in West Sacramento, I was with my daughter, and she couldn't understand why I was so excited.

"You hardly ever go to a River Cats' game," she reminded me.

"I know," I said, "but that is all going to change now."

"But why?" she asked with a puzzled expression on her face. "It's still going to be a stupid baseball game that takes too long to play and costs too much for a family to attend."

"But now all the top prospects and over-the-hill veterans of the San Francisco Giants will be playing right here in West Sacramento instead of the ones from the Oakland A's," I tried to explain.

"So what's the difference?" she asked with interest.

"Well," I said, "I have been a Giants' fan all my life, not an A's fan, other than maybe for a few years back when Billy Martin was managing the A's and Ricky Henderson was stealing hundreds of bases. But I started rooting for the Giants way back in 1958 when they first moved to San Francisco from New York City and played their games in old Seals Stadium. And when they moved into what was then brand new Candlestick Park, my friends and I would often drive down to their games and cheer for future Hall of Fame players like Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Juan Marichal. In fact, I can still remember the first time I saw all that wonderful green grass in Candlestick Park and then watched Willie Mays hit a home run to win the game."

My friends and I would often drive down to their games and cheer for future Hall of Fame players like Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Juan Marichal. In fact, I can still remember the first time I saw all that wonderful green grass in Candlestick Park and then watched Willie Mays hit a home run to win the game.

"So this rooting for one specific team starts really early in a boy's life?" asked my daughter.

"It did with me," I answered. "Why do you ask?"

"Well, as you know, Dallas (my son-in-law) spends half of his life sitting in front of our TV watching his favorite sports teams and I've always wondered why some of them are so much more important to him than others. For instance, if the Dallas Cowboys lose a football game, he more or less goes into mourning for a few days, and he also takes it pretty hard when the Yankees, Giants, and 49ers lose, too. Actually, I kind of do get the Cowboys thing, since if your father is crazy enough to name you after a football team, I guess you are more or less required to be loyal to them forever. But to tell you the truth, most of this sports-watching stuff simply goes over my head. It seems to me that if these silly games were really all that important, they wouldn't just play them all over again the next year. I mean, doesn't the pure redundancy of the whole thing drive you crazy after a while? There's simply nothing novel about a sporting event that has been played over and over again for God only knows how many years. Sooner or later it seems like you and Dallas would have to get bored out of your mind, but you never do. I'm sorry, but I'm afraid I just don't get it."

"Well," I finally said, "I think it's one of those guy things."

"You know," said my daughter with sincere emphasis, "the older I get, the more I realize just how lucky I am not to be a guy!"

Letter to the Editor: motel manager takes umbrage

Not a 'flop house'

In her letter (News-Ledger, Sept. 3), Mrs. Anita Harrington called my business on West Capitol Avenue, the West Wood Motel, a flop house. What does she know? In my motel in the last 20 years there was no person arrested for drugs or any other dirty business. We have a 24-hour security person who patrols and keeps my motel safe. But unlike Mrs. Harrington, my wife and I do care about homeless people. Many of them collect cans, glass, and plastics for recycling for their food. Sometimes they sleep outside in the open land and have to eat wastage food from garbage cans. They use homemade bike trailers because the law doesn't allow them to use shopping carts. Almost every year many of them are evicted from their shelter, some with small children when outside it is cold and rainy. More than once my wife has given a crying mother with children a free room.

Mrs. Harrington has no sympathy for the homeless and that's okay if that is the way she thinks, but these people need our help and are the problem of all of West Sacramento. They sell their blood and body for a little help. Maybe if more people cared there wouldn't be so many homeless men, women and children in our city.

Readers react to River Cats' switcheroo

Several readers used the News-Ledger's Facebook page to comment on the news about the River Cats switching their major league baseball affiliation from the A's to the Giants.

Here were a couple of comments from before the River Cats final deal was confirmed:

Jose Galvan: "I don't have a dog in the fight regarding A's or [Giants] or whatever, but isn't it about time we start referring to them as the 'West' Sacramento River Cats? They aren't on that side of the river!"

Jolaine Beers: "I think it is a done deal ... Giants!!!"

And the view of Efrain-Carly Cornejo after it was a 'done deal':

"The A's have a more productive farm system. Do you want to sell more tickets? Win more games. The A's system does that. I believe this is a big step backwards. It is short-sided in the belief that Giants fans will pay money to see a Giants affiliate. Which they may, once or twice. But Fresno was dead last in '14. People will not continue to come out and see a loser. This is a bad decision and fans will speak with their money."

City looks for volunteers on bikes

West Sacramento's police department is creating police bike patrols as well as well as new, supportive bike patrols made up of volunteers, reports city spokesman Art Schroeder.

The trained volunteers will operate under the "Volunteers in Policing," or VIP, program banner.

"The programs are designed to increase visibility and accessibility to the community," said Schroeder in a press statement. "The bicycle teams will patrol city streets, bike trails, parks, and the Broderick Boat Ramp, in addition to providing assistance with special functions and community outreach."

There are some differences in how the "sworn" and "unsworn" bike officers operate:

"The VIP teams serve the community by reporting suspicious activity and assisting in crime fighting measures," said Schroeder. "The sworn police bike team has many advantages over traditional methods of patrol, including increased mobility to patrol areas not accessible to cars, and increased availability to the community."

The teams will also be more valuable as the city increases its urban trail system, said Schroeder.

The police department hopes to recruit about 20 volunteers to train for the VIP bike unit. Those interested should contact Martha Griffin at (916) 617-4988, or pick up an application at the department's headquarters, 550 Jefferson Boulevard. Or visit the department's Facebook page.

River City High winds up for 'homecoming' weekend

By Danny Thirakul
River City
High School student

Student stress levels are off the charts! River City High School's leadership class has been running rampant trying to pull together a successful Homecoming -- a full month ahead of schedule! This year's Homecoming had to be moved up because its original date conflicted with previously-scheduled events.

Homecoming consists of a Spirit Week, rally, football game and a dance. Spirit week is from Sept. 22 to Sept. 26. The dance is scheduled for Sept. 27. The football game is scheduled the night before the dance: Sept. 26.

Although some may think Homecoming festivities are not so hard to put together; that it's just an event a school puts on, Associated Student Body Board Representative Victoria Visochin, 17, and Senior Class Vice President Nicholas Johnson, 17, would disagree.

Victoria is in charge of Homecoming float decorations and says there have been, "too many hours spent a week working on these floats," but adds, smiling, "Homecoming is life. Go Big Blue!"

Nicholas stresses that Leadership "has been on an extremely tight schedule," putting in a lot of work to get it done on time.

It's not just stressful for the students running the event but everyone else participating. The River City High School Marching Band will be performing at the football game as will the River City High School Cheerleaders. It's is also stressful for the students who go to these events.

Senior Cecilia Pitts, 18, will be attending the Homecoming Dance. Because Homecoming is a month earlier than usual she says, "It caught me off guard. I had to go dress shopping a lot earlier before all the good dresses got taken."

Section Leader of the River City High School Drum Line, Michael Cano, 17, says, "The band is very much excited for the homecoming week, but some of us are a little nervous because of the short notice we were given."

Julia Chapman, 15, is a cheerleader. She says, "We have been working really hard for the Homecoming routine. We have been practicing the routine for the past two weeks." She says the squad is a little nervous but when it comes down to the performance, "We'll hit it!"

Jackrabbits facts: like they aren't rabbits at all

by Mary K. Hanson
Tuleyome.org

We see them everywhere it seems, those agouti furred critters with the huge ears we commonly refer to as jackrabbits. But did you know that jackrabbits aren't "rabbits" at all? They're hares.

Hares differ from rabbits in size (hares are larger, have longer ears and bigger hind feet), speed (they're faster than rabbits), and coloring (their fur is peppered with black markings). Rabbits often live in underground burrows called "warrens", but hares don't. They prefer to spend their time in ruts or hollows on the ground's surface or under the cover of grasses and shrubs. And whereas baby rabbits (commonly called bunnies) are born underground, furless and blind, baby hares (called leverets) are born above ground and are fully furred with their eyes open so they can leave the nest and forage on their own very quickly after birth. In fact, they're so self-sufficient that the mother jackrabbit doesn't protect or even stay with her well-camouflaged offspring during those times when the leverets aren't nursing.

Female jackrabbits (which are generally larger than their male counterparts) aren't too keen on preparing extensive nests for their babies either. They dig or commandeer shallow depressions in the ground, called "forms", and drop the leverets in them. Sometimes the mother may line the form with fur, but more often than not, they're left barren. Jackrabbits can breed several times a year, and each litter can have up to 6 or 8 young in it. In this region, breeding times are usually in late winter or late summer, so that the offspring are born when young plants are most prevalent (in the spring and fall). An adult jackrabbit can weigh up to 9 pounds and grow to be about 2 feet long.

Big eaters (a little more than a dozen jackrabbits can eat as much in a day as a full grown cow!), the jackrabbit's diet consist of a variety of grasses, coarse leaves, twigs, berries and other plant material. And, yes, they also eat their own feces, but only the "first pooped" version. When the jackrabbit evacuates for the first time after a meal, the extruded pellets are green and filled precious moisture and vitamins (produced when the food passes through the intestinal tract). The jackrabbit immediately eats these pellets to gain the optimal fluid and nutrition from their meal. When they expel the pellets for a second time, the pellets are brown – which is the form in which we usually see them – and, being of no further use to the jackrabbit, they are promptly ignored.

The jackrabbit's most distinguishing feature is, of course, its set of large ears. The ears not only allow the jackrabbits to hear exceptionally well, they also act as a kind of shock absorber when the jackrabbit runs. Jackrabbits can hit speeds up to 45 miles per hour, and the ears help to dispel some of the inertia that builds up in it head and body (allowing the jackrabbit to focus more clearly with its eyes as it runs). The ears are also used to heat and cool the jackrabbit through a process called "thermoregulation". Blood vessels in the ears expand or contract to help the jackrabbit regulate its body temperature. The system works so well, in fact, that studies were actually done through the University of Arizona to replicate the process in building construction, utilizing a series of liquid-filled bladders in the walls that could expand or contract to help moderate the inside temperature of the building!

In the wild, most jackrabbits live a short life (1 to 5 years), and populations are usually well-controlled by predators that use the hares as the mainstay of their diet. Commonly, jackrabbits constitute important prey species for hawks, owls, eagles, coyote, foxes and other animals. It's not uncommon to see the jackrabbits dashing across the landscape in a zig-zag pattern, and leaping occasionally (up to 10-feet) to confuse and avoid predators.

So, there you have it... Jackrabbits. More than meets the eye... or the ear.

Tuesday, October 21, 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m., at Davis Senior Center, 646 A Street in Davis

Saturday, November 22, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., at West Sacramento City Hall, 1110 West Capitol Avenue in West Sacramento

Wednesday, December 10, 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., at the Woodland Senior & Community Center, 2001 East Street in Woodland.

With the exception of the November 22 clinic, which is free, a $10 administrative fee will be requested. Those unable to pay will not be turned away.

In addition to getting a flu shot, everyone should also follow these simple steps to avoid the flu:

- Wash hands often with soap and water
- Regularly clean commonly-touched surfaces, i.e. countertops, doorknobs, telephones etc.
- Don't share cups, straws or anything that goes in the mouth
- Cover nose and mouth when you cough and sneeze, and promptly discard used facial tissues
- If you are sick, stay home

Other important factors that help prevent getting sick:

- Getting enough rest and staying physically fit to help the body fight off disease
- Not smoking and reducing your exposure to secondhand smoke

The Yolo County Health Services Department also provides seasonal flu vaccine for a $10.00 administrative fee (those unable to pay for a flu vaccine will not be turned away) as part of the regularly scheduled immunization clinic held every 1st Monday, 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. at 500 Jefferson Blvd in West Sacramento, and every 2nd, 3rd and 4th Monday, 2:00-5:00 p.m. at 137 N. Cottonwood Street in Woodland.

Added Giants Senior Vice President and General Manager Brian Sabean in a press statement:

"Sacramento is a great baseball town and the area has traditionally produced top baseball talent for the Major Leagues. Our affiliation with the River Cats provides us with an outstanding player development environment, and we are excited about the opportunity to work with our young players at Raley Field."

The River Cats organization provided background on the two organizations:

During their first 15 years in Sacramento, the River Cats were affiliated with the Oakland Athletics, during which time they won 11 division titles, four Pacific Coast League titles, and two Triple-A championships. Though the River Cats have missed the playoffs in back-to-back seasons for the first time in franchise history, the club led the Pacific Coast League in attendance in 2014, and have welcomed more fans through their gates than any other minor league organization since 2000.

The Giants have seven World Series titles, including two in the last four years (2010, 2012). Sacramento joins the Giants' minor league system that includes the Richmond Flying Squirrels (Double-A), San Jose Giants (Single-A Advanced), Augusta GreenJackets (Single-A), and the Salem-Keizer Volcanoes (Short Season).

The A's will move their Triple-A minor league operations to Nashville, Tennessee.

to a store on the 1300-block of West Capitol Avenue. Management and police had both previously warned a 51-year old man to stay away, but he was now on scene, yelling at customers and calling them the "n___" racial slur, which an officer noted "would have likely caused an altercation."

The man was booked on misdemeanor violations.

Sept. 18, 9:12 p.m.

On Big Bear Street, a woman reported a cracked windshield on her car. A neighbor was suspected of doing it.

Sept. 19, 2:44 p.m.

A child abuse case was reported in Southport.

Sept. 19, 4:20 p.m.

A Sacramento woman said she had been loading groceries into her car in front of a Riverpoint Court store when someone must have lifted her wallet out of a canvas bag. Her credit card was later used for a fraudulent charge.

Sept. 19, 5:11 p.m.

Loss prevention officials at a Riverpoint Court store gave police the description of a vehicle used by a fleeing shoplifting suspect. An officer pulled over a car matching the description (a '97 Toyota Corolla) near Harbor and Rice.

The 28-year old Bryte Avenue woman behind the wheel was then arrested after a records check showed she had a local warrant. The woman also had a suspended license due to a DUI conviction. She went to jail.

Sept. 19, 11:42 p.m.

An officer was dispatched to Bridge Street at the River Walk, after a woman reported that a 52-year old North Highlands man had "exposed his fully naked body in public in her presence and she was scared and offended."

The officer contacted the nude man, and found him showing signs of intoxication. The man was arrested.

Sept. 20, 12:47 a.m.

An officer responded to a noise complaint and saw three men in a driveway. He waved one of them over, and asked the man to quiet his group down and go inside. The man appeared to have been drinking.

"He advised me he knew who had called the police and appeared to get agitated," reported the officer. "As I was driving away, (he) began to walk into the front yard of the residence, but then turned and walked into the street and began cursing at the neighbor across the street."

The officer reversed course and arrested the fellow for being "too intoxicated to care for himself and (because) he would continue to cause problems with the neighbors."

Sept. 20, 1:33 a.m.

A police officer working along the 1800-block of West Capitol saw a 59-year old woman "with a glass methamphetamine pipe up to her lips and a lighter in her hand. She was also found to have six warrants." All of which was enough for jail.

Sept. 20, 5:15 a.m.

Police received a report that a man at a motel on the 900-block of West Capitol had just been stabbed by his girlfriend. A responding officer saw that the 39-year old victim had a six-inch laceration on his left arm. He said he had been in an argument with his girlfriend of six years, and she "picked up a kitchen knife and cut his left arm." The woman then left on bike.

The man gave police a photo of the woman before he was taken by ambulance to the UC Davis Medical Center.

Later, UC Davis police gave the man a ride to a Sacramento light rail station after he was treated. They found the woman waiting there to meet him. The UCD police detained her for arrest by West Sacramento police.

Sept. 20, 12:48 p.m.

An officer arrested a 23-year old and a 48-year old man, both transients, after finding them dismantling the AC unit on a vacant building on western West Capitol Avenue. The pair had "burglary tools": screwdrivers, wire cutters, wire strippers, pliers and wrenches.

Sept. 20, 1:38 p.m.

Police were dispatched to the 600 block of Harbor for an altercation between a man and woman. An approaching officer saw the man yelling at the woman, and noted.

"He then grabbed her arms at which point WSPD intervened and placed (him) in handcuffs."

Witnesses told police the man had previously grabbed the woman by the neck and "slammed" her into a tree twice, leaving her with visible injuries.

Sept. 20, 3:29 p.m.

A Sacramento man reported someone had burglarized his vehicle while parked at a Riverpoint Court mall. Gone were about $440 worth of tools.

Sept. 20, 7:30 p.m.

A 19-year old woman from Madrone Avenue was arrested for shoplifting at a Riverpoint Court store. She was released with a "notice to appear" in court.

Sept. 21, 10:52 a.m.

A citizen reported that a 48-year old man was carrying a handgun at Merkley and Westacre.

An officer contacted a man he found biking against traffic at the location. A pat-search turned up a methamphetamine pipe with a "usable" amount of residue stuck to it. There was evidently no gun, but the man was arrested on drug charges.

Sept. 21, 2:53 p.m.

Police were dispatched to Lisbon Avenue for the report of a 32-year old woman hitting someone in the face.

Sept. 21, 3:46 p.m.

Police responded to a domestic dispute on Mosswood Circle.

They found a man with a cut on his arm and fresh blood on his shirt and other arm. The man said his former girlfriend, with whom he had a child, had been arguing with him in front of his house when she "broke out his window and threw a piece of glass at his person which cut him in his left arm."

The woman's version of the story was that she indeed broke the window, but that the ex-boyfriend cut himself "while he was trying to shut the window."

She was arrested for domestic violence.

Sept. 21, 6:05 p.m.

Someone stole the tip jar from a juice bar at Southport Town Center. The loss was estimated at about $50.

Flu clinic

Joke of the week:

A lapsed Catholic went into the confessional box after 20 years away from the church.

He stepped inside the box -- and found a fully equipped bar with Guinness on tap. Next to it was a wall of decanters of fine Irish whiskey, and rows of Waterford crystal glasses. On the counter was a humidor filled with Cuban cigars and an array of cured meats, fine cheeses, and expensive chocolates.

He poured himself a stout and looked around appreciatively as soft music swirled around him and a massage chair kicked in gently.

After a moment, the priest entered and took a seat on the other side of the screen.

The man said, "Father, forgive me, for it's been a very long time since I've been to confession, but I must first admit that the confessional box is much more inviting than it used to be. This is terrific! I would have been back sooner if I'd known."

The priest's voice came from the other side of the confessional:

"Get out of there, you knucklehead. You're sitting on my side of the box!"

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY SAM STRUCKHOFF

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Edge of Tomorrow" (PG-13) -- Tom Cruise gets ripped apart by space aliens and resurrected over and over again until he gets it right. In this unfortunate futuristic setting, a powerful alien army is spreading over Earth. Cruise plays a military officer who's more of a spokesman than a rifleman -- until he mouths off and gets sent to the front line. He doesn't last long in combat, but whenever he dies, he just wakes up at the beginning of the day. Using his Groundhog Day power, Cruise does a little better each time.

The whole time, I wished I was the one with the video-game controller, and not watching somebody else play. The upside is that the movie looks like a game worth playing. The core gimmick of the movie is used to good effect, generating a rhythm of intense action.

"A Million Ways to Die in the West" (R) -- This Western parody shows that people didn't need epic gunfights and wild horse chases to die spectacularly in the Wild West, there were plenty of awful ways to die a humiliating and mundane death. Seth McFarlane, the creator of TV's "Family Guy" and the raunchy buddy-comedy "Ted," wrote, directed and stars in this rambling spoof. An A-list cast fills in the township where low-brow jokes blow around like tumbleweed -- Charlize Theron, Amanda Seyfreid, Neil Patrick Harris and Liam Neeson.

Tom Cruise in 'Edge of Tomorrow'

Like much of MacFarlane's work, the humor gives you a clear idea that a smart guy is writing the dumbest and grossest jokes he can get away with. While not every joke is a winner, the movie makes up in volume. However, the rapid-fire raunchy humor can wear on some audiences.

"Obvious Child" (R) -- Donna (Jenny Slate) tells her embarrassingly personal jokes in a tight stand-up club with a little audience. She's honest and awkward and refreshingly funny. However, her jokes about her relationship finally push her boyfriend to dump her, triggering a downward swing for Donna. In a subsequent one-night stand, Donna and her partner are both too drunk to figure out a condom. Later, when Donna realizes she's pregnant, the all too sweet-as-pie guy from her one-night stand starts to court her. This is the first starring role for Slate, who had a short stint on "Saturday Night Live," and she shows an astounding talent for balancing the heavy with the light.

"The Grand Seduction" (PG-13) -- Don't expect rays of white-hot seduction to emanate from your screen as Brendan Gleeson turns up the charm in this small-town dramedy. In an itty-bitty fishing village in a far-flung piece of coastal Canada, fishing is restricted and the townspeople have set their hopes on a oil company setting up a new factory. Trouble is, the company won't build unless the town has at least one doctor in its population, and the town has none. Gleeson plays the town's acting mayor, tasked with wooing a visiting young doctor (Taylor Kitcsh) into taking up residence.

"I Want My MTV"
by Rob Tannenbaum and Craig Marks
(Plume, $20)
By Chris Richcreek

If the MTV era of the 1980s meant something to you, if it was an essential part of your musical and television life, then "I Want My MTV" should be an essential read for you.

Authors Rob Tannenbaum and Craig Marks do a great job of capturing the phenomenon that was MTV from 1981, when "Video Killed the Radio Star" debuted, until 1992, when the reality show "The Real World" signaled a sea change for MTV programming. The best part is that the authors let hundreds of singers, musicians, video directors, executives and VJs (remember them?) tell the story.

And what a story they tell, one peppered with laugh-out-loud moments.

Early chapters cover the launching of the network, which included the star-laden "I want my MTV" campaign that helped it secure spots on various cable systems.

As MTV grew in influence, videos began equaling success for many artists. For others, the opposite was true. Billy Squier's pink shirt and odd dancing in the video for "Rock Me Tonite" essentially derailed his career. Some of the artists found themselves as confused as Billy Joel, who said of his "Pressure" video: "It was [the director's] movie, his vision. I didn't know what any of it meant."

Later chapters highlight the era's sex and drug controversies. As Ann Wilson of Heart says, "In the '80s, we drank a lot of champagne, we did a lot of blow [cocaine], and made a bunch of videos."

MTV's move toward programming beyond videos helped the network evolve as its emphasis on music videos began to decline. For some, like producer Tony DiSanto, it was a natural progression: "It's still a network for and about youth culture, whether you're talking 'Jersey Shore' or a new Lady Gaga video."

But for many fans of the Ô80s, singer Stevie Nicks embraces their feelings the best: "I want my MTV. I'm so sad that MTV doesn't play videos all the time."

For those people, there's this book, and YouTube, to revive the magic.

The Kitchen Diva

BY Angela Shelf Medearis

It's Lunch Time!

School is back in session -- and so is your daily lunch-making routine. A good lunch is a balanced one, formed around a dependable main course and punctuated with a solid supporting cast of nutrient-packed sides, a low- or no-calorie drink and even a little treat.

Don't worry if your child wants basically the same lunch every day. Just include these nutritious choices that we call the four elements to a perfectly packed lunch. Here are some tips that will keep your child's school mealtimes healthy and happy all year long!

Food Safety Tips

Keep food preparation areas in the kitchen clean. Wash countertops, cutting boards, utensils and your hands in hot, soapy water. And don't let the family pet jump up on kitchen counters.

After preparing lunches, remember to immediately return unused portions of perishable foods -- like cheeses, deli meats and mayonnaise -- to the refrigerator. Don't let them sit out on the counter.

Make sure that cold foods are cold before packing them in a lunchbox. If possible, prepare the lunch the night before and store it in the refrigerator. (This also takes the edge off the mad morning rush!)

Insulated lunch bags or boxes are the best way to keep food at a safe temperature until noon. Sandwiches made with refrigerated items such as luncheon meats, cheese and tuna salad should be carried in an insulated lunch bag with an ice pack or frozen juice pouch inside so sandwiches will stay extra cool.

At school, instruct the kids to store their lunchbox out of direct sunlight and away from radiators or other heaters, if possible.

Keep hot foods -- like soups, stews or chilies -- hot. In the morning, bring the food to a boil and then immediately pour into a hot, sterile vacuum bottle. (Sterilize the vacuum bottle with boiling water.)

Lunch foods that can be eaten at room temperature include:

Peanut butter
Jams and jellies
Breads, crackers, cereals
Clean fruits and vegetables
Dried meats, such as beef jerky
Baked products, such as cookies and cakes
Canned meat or poultry products that are eaten immediately after opening

Make Healthy Choices

In a nutshell, meats should be lean (no salami or bologna), breads should be whole-wheat and condiments should be used sparingly. Here are some ideas:

A turkey or roast beef and Swiss sandwich on wheat bread with a drizzle of low-fat Italian dressing (instead of mayo) and loaded with produce, if you can get away with it! Shredded coleslaw mix (cabbage and carrots) is a great sandwich addition. It stays crisp, adds a nice crunch to a sandwich, and is high in vitamins A and K.

Sliced ham, cheese and Triscuits

PB&J (check your school's policy on nuts and nut products first) made on whole-wheat bread with a pure-fruit jelly like Smucker's Simply Fruit.

Thermos of hot soup
Grilled chicken breast
Hard-boiled eggs
Tuna or cubed chicken tossed with light mayo, mustard, celery and carrot

Lunch Sides With Substance

Only one in four kids consumes the recommended five servings of fruits and vegetables daily, so pack a lunch without produce and you're missing a golden opportunity to slip some much-needed nutrients back into their diets. As long as you have at least one piece of fruit or a serving of vegetables, adding a second crunchy snack is fine.

Carrot sticks
Celery sticks
Apple slices with peanut butter
Fruit salad; banana, pear, peach, or any other whole fruit
Grapes
Olives
Almonds and raisins (mixed 50-50)
Triscuits
Small bag of pretzel sticks or Goldfish pretzels
Baked! Lay's

Drinks

Considering that many kids' beverages have nearly as much sugar per ounce as soft drinks, tossing the wrong drink in the lunchbox could translate into 3-5 extra pounds by the end of the school year. Drinks should be either zero- or low-cal (water, tea, diet drinks) or high in nutrition (milk, 100 percent juice). Here are the best picks, in descending order.

Water
Lightly sweetened iced tea, like Honest Tea
Low-fat milk
100 percent juice drinks
Low-calorie kids' drinks, like Minute Maid Fruit Falls and Tropicana Fruit Squeeze

Master this nutritious lunchbox mix, and your kid will be the envy of every mystery-meat-eating student in school!

You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call, 1-800-280-2832 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site, www.auction.com, for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, T.S.# 9448-5497. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (800) 280-2832 or visit this Internet Web site WWW.AUCTION.COM, using the file number assigned to this case 008222-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. FOR SALES INFORMATION: (800) 280-2832 Date: 9/11/2014 Date Executed: - CLEAR RECON CORP.
